Investigating GN Otometrics' future strategic options

Yesterday the owner of GN Otometrics, GN, has informed the Copenhagen stock exchange, that it has been decided to investigate the strategic options for GN Otometrics and GN ReSound. The process could end up with an unchanged continuation of the businesses supported by minor acquisitions – or with a decision to continue the businesses under a different ownership.

Whichever the case, GN Otometrics will continue unabated to improve our leading market position by pursuing our planned strategic initiatives. Nothing has changed in that respect. We will continue to invest strongly in R&D, product launches and sales and marketing efforts. Developing and promoting premium products will stay on top of our agenda.
